

Chester's Frequency Analysis

November 2021

A WARM WELCOME,

It's been such a pleasure to prepare this analysis of Chester's frequency and vibration. His energy field is his consciousness and every part of Chester has a frequency, his physical body, his thoughts, his actions, every time he barks and every wag of his tail! You may well ask how it's possible to obtain this information and the answer is Quantum Technology. Genius Insight Biofeedback analyses Chester's sound (hence why his bark, breathing or whine was needed), photo and date of birth through a system of vibrational probabilities to take a deep dive into his energetic field.

There's so much to explore in Chester's analysis and I hope you find this information helpful. Remember, that the biofeedback analysis isn't a diagnostic tool and is for entertainment purposes only. If you have any medical concerns that require attention, please see a vet and if you'd like to explore other modalities, such as crystals, please consult an expert in that field.

That all being said, let's get on and see what Chester's energetic field looks like.

Chester's Aura

7th November 2021

An Interpretation of Chester's Aura

This reading of Chester's aura is based upon my intuitive assessment of the colours.

Chester has a good balance of colours in his aura which reflect many of the colours in his chakras (you'll find more on that later). He has some wonderful pink colours coming in from the right representing the loving soul that he is. He's very focused in his upper chakras (pinks, blues and greens), showing that he's a caring doggie soul who's very sensitive to his human family and all who he touches.

My intuition tells me that, if you believe in the development of his soul energy, he's fairly new at being a dog and he's not an old soul! His colours are fairly subtle and I believe that he's chosen you to help him evolve in confidence as there's a nervousness in his field, almost an uncertainty of what he's to expect from this doggie lifetime. He knows that you'll give him the direction he needs and his energy field will expand. Whilst he has all this wonderful, almost head in the clouds energy, he needs a bit of grounding and to be more in touch with his earthy instincts.

If you look to the right of his aura, this represents what he is receiving both in this realm and from other realms and to the left, you'll see what he is giving out. He has a lot of unconditional love entering his energy field from the right, he certainly is a well loved dog. Look at all that blue (throat chakra) energy, which is great communication verbally, non-verbally and spiritually being received. Wow!

To the left, he's giving lots of heart chakra energy, which is exactly where he's meant to be. Dogs are the givers and, very importantly, teachers of unconditional love and he's got off to a great start.

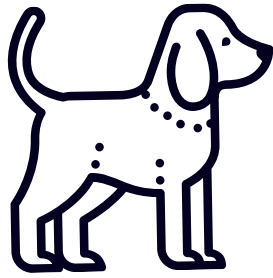

A Quick Introduction to Dog Chakras

The chakras work as conductors of energy and each one has a unique frequency. They are spinning energy portals situated in various locations throughout the body and are your dog's 'life force energy'. The life force energy filters through their chakras and then travels by means of meridians (we'll cover that later) to every part of their body.

A dog's energy field is usually much wider than yours. They receive and distribute energy through each chakra individually, which makes them sensitive to more subtle vibrations and changes within the atmosphere or environment. The base chakra has the lowest frequency and the crown chakra has the highest frequency.

Our dogs are tuned into us on many levels. emotionally, intuitively and physically. If our chakras are out of balance that imbalance can affect our dog's energy system. Just as a nervous owner's fear and stress will travel right down the dog's lead at the dog park or obedience class, so can our chakras affect their chakras. Calm pet owners help make for relaxed pets.

Chester's Chakras

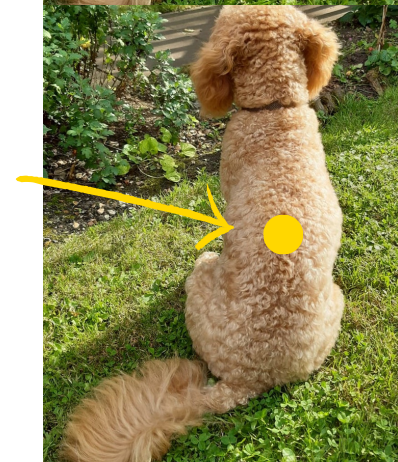

Chester's Root Chakra was flagged as needing some balancing. It indicates that he feels unsettled with regard to his environment and possibly to ground his sense of safety, he may need some reassurance.

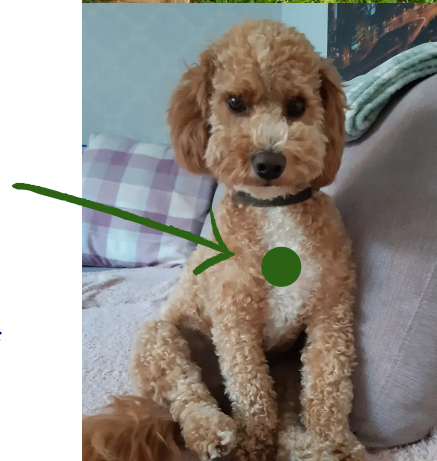

Chester's Sacral Chakra is perfectly in balance. He's able to express his feelings appropriately and as he picks up on all your emotions, he's able to process them very well. He's able to settle down when he wants to, and not overly restless.

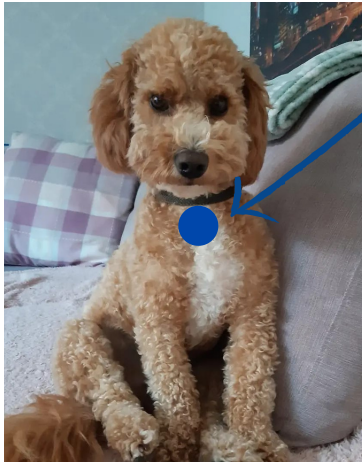

Chester's Solar Plexus Chakra is in balance and he's confident, however it's a little over-active so I'm giving this a very small flag! If left unchecked, there could become a tendency for him to become a bit bossy and over-confident, something to look out for!

Chester's Heart Chakra is perfectly in balance. It connects the lower chakras to the upper chakras. He really is totally loving and friendly and he has unconditional love for himself and everyone else in the household.

Chester's Throat Chakra needs a little bit of help as it's becoming a problem for him. He's not expressing himself in the way he wants to and could whine or bark more as a result. Some blue coloured crystals in his environment and animal reiki may help.

Chester's Third Eye Chakra was flagged as needing some balancing. This is the main area to focus on for Chester. It could be that he's becoming more introverted or too easily distracted. He may respond well to animal reiki to help him with this which is something you could do by holding your hand a few inches away from his Third Eye Chakra.

Chester's Crown Chakra is wonderfully in balance. He's aware of his world and his place in it and very trusting. He's very balanced spiritually and may even see things that you can't see! His intuitive sense is excellent.

Chester's Brachial Chakra is in balance and he has bonded very well with his human family. This chakra is key for opening up the other chakras and holding your hand over these points to give him your animal reiki and then working on his root, throat and third eye chakras would be an excellent routine for a week or so.

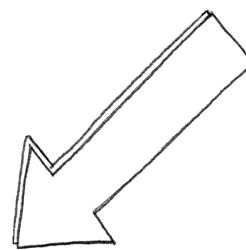

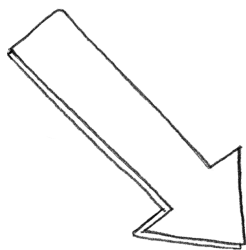

Frequency Pointers about possible Conditions, Food Allergies and Emotions

Using the Genius Biofeedback, we're able to make observations about what might be happening on a physical and emotional level for Chester and then watch for these to determine whether these are something we should be paying attention to.

When scanning Chester's energy field, we're checking for bones, ligaments, muscles, food allergies, what Chester is being exposed to in his environment, what may be causing any anxieties and, bearing in mind that all energy is one, what aspects in his wider energetic field might be affecting him. Everything is a balance, and we've included those in balance as well.

No Pointers listed constitute advice in any way, they are observations from his energetic field and should not be taken in any other context. If you have any dietary or medical concerns, please see a vet or appropriate professional.

A Quick Introduction to Dog Meridian Lines

According to Traditional Chinese Medicine, Meridians form a network of pathways just below the skin's surface, through which all the energy (Qi) in the body circulates. It's like major power lines running through Chester's body.

Each Meridian pathway follows aspects of the circulatory, lymphatic, muscular and nervous systems. In dogs, there are 12 paired meridians, one on each side of the body, and 2 extra meridians running along his back and underside.

How does this influence Chester? It gives us a deeper understanding about his energy flow and how to keep him well. It's hard to know what Chester is experiencing and, along with the chakra analysis, we can get an idea of what's going well and what's not going so well.

So, let's have a look 🕶️

A bit about Chester's Meridian Lines

Perfectly in Balance - Chester's Large Intestine Meridian

The health of our large intestine meridian is dependent upon the health of our emotional well-being. Chester is able to let go of patterns of negative thinking and destructive emotions and he is able process his difficult emotions in a healthy way.

In need of a Little Help - Chester's Bladder Meridian

The bladder meridian follows the line of the spine from the top of the eye socket right down to the tips of the back paws and to the tip of the tail. It forms an association to all other meridians, or organs throughout the body.

It's only a little out of balance, so if you massage along the line, it'll soon come into balance.

"....the Chinese have a better word for it: Qi. A life force. An energy. This is the energy that flows within you. It can be shaped, moulded, directed."

Michael Scott

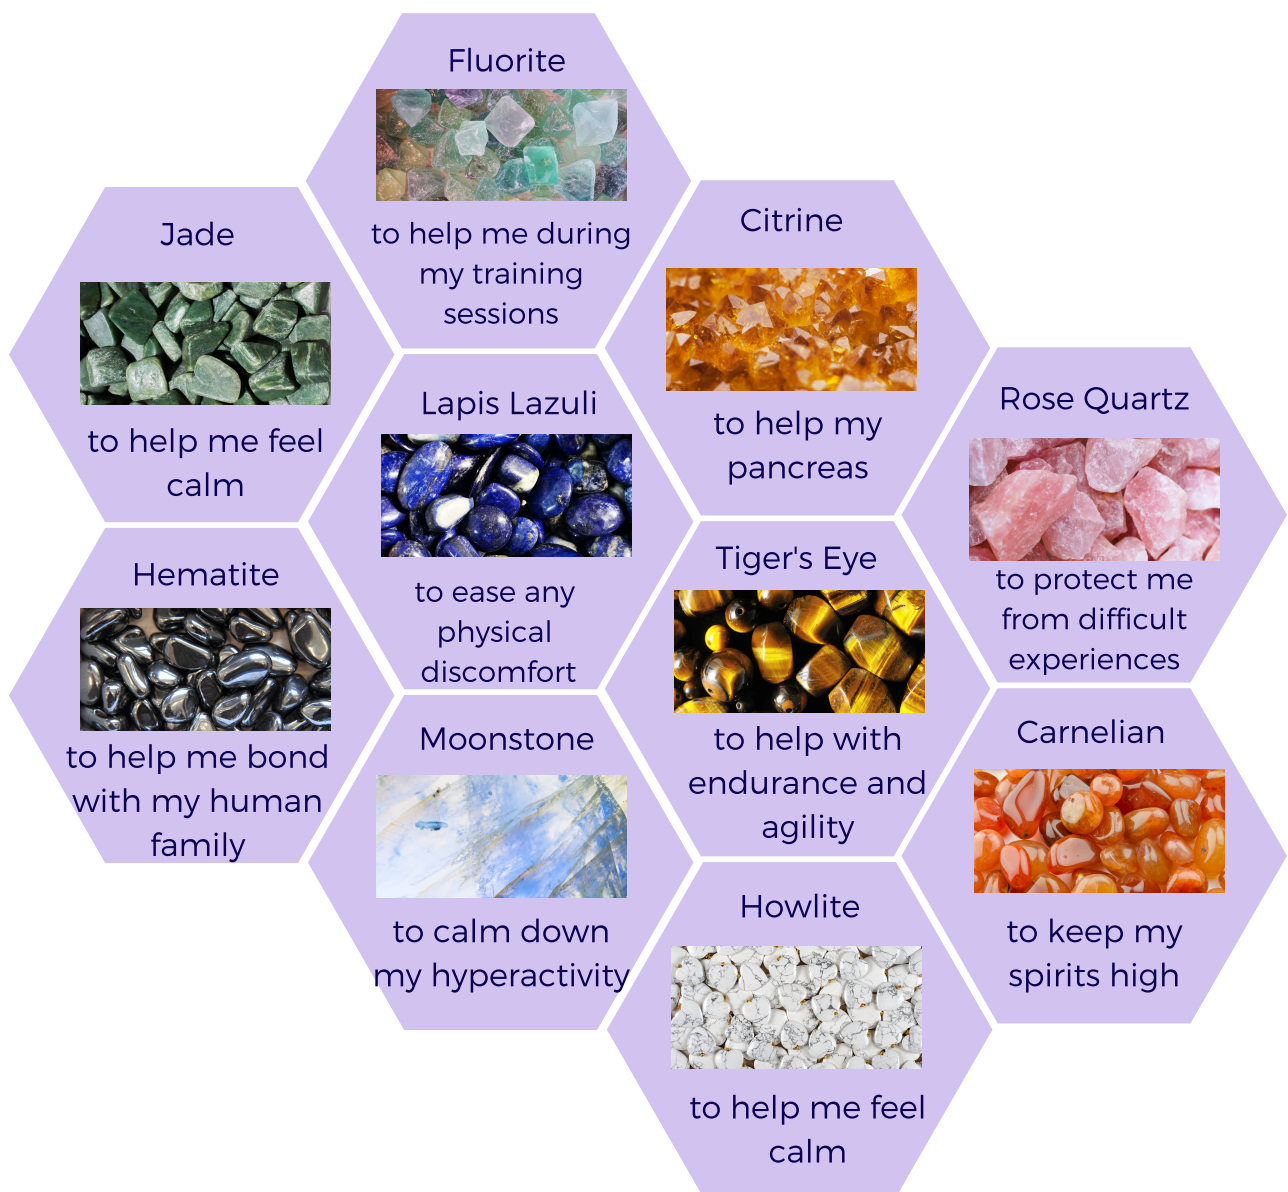

Helpful Crystals

There are many wonderful crystal healing stones that can be used to assist your fur family. Carrying crystals automatically lifts the frequency whether worn, held or in a room. We recommend that you to consult a crystal healer prior to using crystals and monitor your pet closely to observe their reaction.

Having said that, crystals can be used for a variety of emotions and behaviours such as separation anxiety, calmness, possessiveness and a lack of confidence. Let's take a look at which ones were highlighted and whose frequency may be helpful for Chester.

What Chester is thinking

In Traditional Chinese
Medicine, I'm a Water
Element

Don't leave me for too long,
I panic a bit when you go out and leave me home
alone

After a long sleep, it takes me
a while to really get going

I like cold climates

I'm highly intuitive, I know that I can see things that you can't!

Sometimes I huff a bit,
I'm a bit of a groaner

What Chester wants to tell you

My favourite colour is blue/black

My hearing is 37 times
better than those in my human family, so when I tell you it's time to pay attention, pay attention!

My favourite sense is hearing

My favourite season is winter

Please keep an eye on my posture - I think I'm prone to headaches when I twist wrongly

I'm prone to being a bit obsessive, I have to work at this personality trait!

and remember
Chester LOVES YOU
